HONGKONG, DECEMBER 24TH, 1484.

The telegram reporting that the German flug has been hoisted in New Britain and New Ireland and on the north coast of New Guinea need excite no great surprise. In seems," he says, "as though that abominable the first place, the Earl of DERBY has ex . plicitly stated that it was not the intention of the British Government to annex either the Solomon Islands or the New Hebrides. and negotiations have lately been going on between the British and German Governments much more objectionable when the names of with reference to New Ireland and New books are given. How does, this look in Hug-Britain. It is therefore most probable that states of america? Yet how is it better than the German Government has taken formal possession of those two extensive islands. We do not think, however, that it is likely that Germany has advanced any pretensions to northern New Guines, though if she had we fail to see how any one could say her may. On the 5th November, amidst considerable pomp and ceremony, Commodore Essars boisted the British flag at Port Moresby and proclaimed the protectorate of the Queen-Empress Victoria over a portion of New Guines, but this protectorate does not include the north coast, as will be seen by the following schedule annexed to -- the Boyal-proclamation then read : --

The Australians have long orged the annexation of the Solomon Islands and New Hebrides, but the Imperial Government have never shown any inclination to comply with their wishes in this respect. They have not, however, been so anxious for the acquisition of the two large islands said to have just been an. nexed by Germany. If the report be true, it is more than possible that the 11 a.m. -Morning Prayer, Sermon, and Holy Communication will be followed to be the the followed that the followed the followed the f action will be followed up by the seigure of the Solomon Islands and New Hebrides, which form the tail of the chain of islands II a.m. - Maraing Prayer, Sarman, and Holy Commuheaded by New Britain and New Ireland. Fancy woods and tortoise-shell ed new possessions of Germany may be made of some value as tropical dependencies, but they will have first to be conquered. There is no reason why the Australians should object to the settlement of these islands by Germany, which country has clearly as much right to establish stations in the Pacific as the Marquesas Islands, the Dutch to take various groups scattered over Polynesit. The Germans established in New Britain could not interfere with Australia any more than the Dutch-in-Timor, but on the contrary their settlements would form a new centre of commerce and civilization in the Pacific. The Australians cannot complain of being cramped; there will be room and to 29th ult. spare for them in the wast island continent mineral, which cannot be found or cultivated object to receive French criminals in their midst, and have rightly complained of the nuisance caused by the escapees from Nonmea, but they have no reason to suppose that Germany intends to found a penal establishment in New Britain,
